

I would like to lend my support to the ARRL recommendation to restructure their radio licence to three classes, novice, general, and extra. Also to drop the morse code requirement for all but the extra class. I think this change would attract more persons to this great hobby, and they would seek to learn morse code on their own.